

The Human Rights Situation in Sudan

57th Session | 09 September 2024

Elizka Relief Foundation calls urgent attention to the continuing human rights violations, displacement, and humanitarian crisis affecting communities across Sudan. Civilians remain exposed to violence, food insecurity, interrupted health services, and the erosion of safe livelihoods.

We urge the international community to strengthen civilian protection, expand reliable humanitarian access, and support accountable, locally informed pathways to peace. Responses must place women, children, displaced people, and community-led institutions at the centre of recovery and long-term resilience.

Human dignity, accountable governance, and community leadership must guide every humanitarian and diplomatic response.

Elizka Relief Foundation remains committed to evidence-led advocacy and to partnerships that translate international commitments into meaningful protection and opportunity on the ground.
